

Thomas Owlva Edison,
a wise, curious and industrious bird was born in Milan, Ohio in 1847.

Thomas loved reading about science...

and performing experiments.

Even when his experiments
would go wrong,
his love of learning
remained strong.

Supplies were not free.

So to earn some money,
Thomas got a job on a train selling candy and newspapers.

Thomas worked very hard.

As a reward,
the train conductor allowed Thomas to set up a laboratory in the baggage car.

Thomas learned from his mistakes
and perfected
his experiments.
